

Staff Teaching, University of Szeged / April 2023

An expert in English language and children's literature from the University of Szeged, visited PH Kärnten from April 17 to April 21, 2023.

During his stay, he delivered lectures on topics including the importance of nursery rhymes in language learning, and beast fables in children's literature. Furthermore, he provided students with Hans Christian Andersen's impact on language learning, and contemporary children's literature, specifically Jane O'Connor's Fancy Nancy series. The students gave the professor a warm welcome and showed a strong interest in the material.

The visit provided valuable insights and professional development opportunities for the teaching staff at PH Kärnten, enhancing their teaching programs and methodologies in English language and children's literature.
